

If I take an acorn that's fallen from its cup and plant it in the garden and never dig it up, the sun and wind will change it into a great big tree, with lots of acorns on it, growing all for me.